

Phone Strike Talks Resume

Consolidated, CWA Seek To End Dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Negotiations between Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America (CWA) are scheduled to resume today in an effort to end the prolonged telephone strike in southeastern Ohio.

The session is set for 2 p.m. at the Seneca Hotel here. Federal mediators will sit in with Ohio Consolidated and CWA representatives.

Similar bargaining sessions which recessed before the Christmas holidays failed to produce any settlement. Renewal of a union shop clause, classification of supervisory personnel and other contract disputes are holding up agreement.

The CWA went on strike last July 15 when its one-year contract with the company expired. On Oct. 15, Ohio Consolidated closed its exchanges in Portsmouth, New Boston and Sciotoville after stone-throwing and cable-cutting incidents. The union has denied responsibility for any violence.

Ohio Consolidated has restored emergency phone service in Portsmouth and Sciotoville.

In Portsmouth, meanwhile, the city council Wednesday rescinded an emergency resolution adopted Dec. 3, after declaring "an emergency extraordinary emergency no longer exists."

At the same time, Mayor J. Harold Freka handed in his resignation. He had occupied the post since last Feb. 15. Freka said his duties as superintendent of the blast furnace at the Detroit Steel Corp. in Portsmouth prohibited him from remaining as mayor.

Vice-Mayor Merle Odle will be acting mayor until the council elects Freka's successor. The city's administration will continue to be directed by City Manager Robert Layton.

City council rescinded the emergency resolution at the recommendation of acting Police Chief Albert Bailey.

Bailey said, however, that police will remain on duty at the barricaded area surrounding the company's exchange building until Ohio Consolidated and the CWA reach a contract settlement.

PARTIES AND ACTIVITIES for older residents are attracting interest at the Memorial Building as evidenced by this picture of a recent holiday party held at the community center. Meetings for the "golden age" group are being promoted by Lee Burton, manager of the building.

$750 Million Set For Soil Bank Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has allocated $750,685,000 for payment to farmers who retire land from production next year under the soil bank program.

The purpose of the soil bank is to encourage farmers to reduce production of major surplus crops by offering them payments for keeping some of their cropland idle.

Allocations by crops included: wheat $267,630,000, corn $217,500, 000 and tobacco $34,055,000.

The allocations by crops for Ohio included:

Corn—$15,695,000. Cigar filler types 42, 43 and 44 tobacco—$72,500. Wheat—$5,351,000.

2 Killed In Crash

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—Two persons were killed and one injured in a two-car collision Wednesday night on U. S. 35 about 20 miles east of here.

Sheriff Charles A. Roberts identified the victims as Willie Manuel, 40, of Montgomery, Ala., and his three-months-old grandson Don Ritchie, of Detroit.

The purpose of the soil bank is to encourage farmers to reduce production of major surplus crops by offering them payments for keeping some of their cropland idle.

Allocations by crops included: wheat $267,630,000, corn $217,500, 000 and tobacco $34,055,000.

Russell May Change Pro Basketball

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Russell, gaining confidence to match the spring in his $17,000 legs, may cause some changes in professional basketball on the strength of his four games.

The 6-10 All-America and Olympic ace grabbed 34 rebounds, scored 15 points and generally gave the Warriors fits as his contribution to Boston's 120-97 NBA victory over Philadelphia Wednesday night.

In the first game of the double-header, Ft. Wayne defeated Rochester 99-93.

Russell made his pro debut only last Saturday yet his rebound performance put him within five of Neil Johnston's single game record and enabled the Celtics to out-rebound the Warriors 95-96 a category in which the towering Philadelphians once had no peers.

Perhaps the biggest revolution Russell may be starting is a renewed interest in defense in the professional game whose rules have helped push scoring duels to dizzy heights. The capacity crowd of 13,900 at Boston Garden greeted Russell's defensive efforts with wild cheering Wednesday night.

Russell already has proved his ability to block the twisting jump shot of Bob Pettit of St. Louis and the hook of Johnston—league scoring aces. Not long ago both were considered to possess unstoppable shots.

The Celtics posted three NBA records in Wednesday night game.

Russell bettered Johnston's league mark for rebounds in a single period (12) with 16. Boston tried 134 field goals to top 112 by the old Baltimore club and the Celtics' 95 rebounds bettered Rochester's 93.

Amputation Fails To Save Woman's Life

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Amputation of both feet Wednesday failed to save the life of Mrs. Bertha L. Harris, 23, of Marion, Ohio, injured Christmas night in an auto collision on U. S. 40 four miles west of Centerville, Ind.

Dr. Harold Hill, Wayne County coroner, said amputation was necessary in an attempt to save her life. She also suffered traumatic shock and multiple rib fractures. Killed instantly in the crash was Lloyd L. Frey, 50, of Lafayette, Ind.

Seven others were injured. Jesse Harris, 30, of Marion, husband of the dead woman received rib injuries. Miss Aritha Parks, 21, Mrs. Harris' sister; Lee M. Stewart, 52, and Beverly Goodwin, 20, other passengers in the Harris car, were released after treatment in Reid Hospital. All are from Marion.

Frey's wife, Phyllis, 30, and two children, Sharon, 3, and Gail Lynn Andrews, 7, Mrs. Frey's daughter by a previous marriage, received minor injuries, according to Sheriff Edward Cordell.

Troubled Family Life, Changes In School Cited As Hurting Children's Mental Health

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Troubled family life, repeated changes in schools and isolation from well-organized community groups were cited today as significant factors adversely affecting the mental health of modern youth.

The findings were made by an Ohio State University research team in a report to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science in New York City.

The report, authored by Dr. A. by the researchers, on the basis of their finds, were:

Students who make repeated changes in schools are subject to greater risks of adverse personal change, while the "non-mobility" have increased chances of changing in the direction of mental health.

The research team said objectives of the follow-up study, conducted in 1955, were to determine rates and direction of personality change in the youths during the transition from childhood to adolescence.

The students tested lived in the same Ohio county, with a population of 60,000 almost equally divided between rural and urban residents.

The study showed that there was little or no change in personality or mental health for 50 per cent of the subjects. Another 20 per cent showed "moderate improvement in test scores but insufficient to give confidence in statistical significance."

A little over 14 per cent, the researchers reported, changed "significantly upward" while 8.6 per cent "moved downward to significantly lower levels of mental health."

The department said the soil-blown situation in the drought area is considerably more serious than in the last two years.

Reports indicate that in many places the moisture conditions are the worst in recorded history," it said.

The report said that about a third of the damaged land is in Kansas. Altogether, nearly 250,000 acres of growing wheat—about 80 per cent in Kansas and Colorado—have been seriously damaged by wind.

Among the conclusions reached youngsters in the health of their personalities.

The researchers reported that the chances of favorable personal change "appear to be significantly greater and the risks of unfavorable change significantly less" for:

(1) Students living in rural homes; than for those in a city; (2) students whose fathers were in jobs of high occupational prestige, than those whose fathers were in low-status jobs; (3) students whose families "were upwardly mobile in the social and occupational class structure, than for those whose families remained stable or were downwardly mobile."

The research was financed by the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction and by the university's development fund.

Plans Are Made For O'Neill Inauguration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 19-gun salute, a band concert and a reception in the statehouse rotunda will be part of the inaugural ceremonies Jan. 14 when C. William O'Neill is sworn in as Ohio's next governor.

Plans for the ceremonies were made Wednesday by a civic committee headed by John Galbreath, Columbus realtor.

The program will begin with a concert by visiting bands at 10 a.m. At 11:30, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, State Treasurer Roger W. Tracey, State Auditor James A. Rhodes and Atty. General William Saxbe, all Republicans, will be sworn into office. Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court will swear in O'Neill at noon.

The 19-gun salute will follow immediately. The statehouse reception will begin at 2:30 p.m. and the inaugural ball will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Neil House here.

Visit Baby Gorilla

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Prominent zoological leaders from over the nation come to Columbus Friday to see a first-hand glimpse at the only baby gorilla born in captivity.

Floyd C. Redick, the city's service director, said six zoological leaders will be here to see the infant daughter of Christina and the Baron, the Columbus Zoo's gorillas.

The baby gorilla, in her fifth day of life, is being kept in an incubator. Redick said Dr. Leonard Goss and Lee Crandall of the Bronx Zoo, Julian Frazier of the Oklahoma City Zoo, Phil Skeldon of the Toledo Zoo, Fletcher Reynolds of the Cleveland Zoo and Robert Bean of the Chicago Zoo will be here.

Columbiana Clippers Will Have Ten-Game Schedule

COLUMBIANA — Schedules already assigned by the Tri-County High School League for the 1957 football season give Columbiana Clippers ten games & five at home and five away, a night game with every team in the league.

Every game will be on a Friday except the game with Springfield Township here Thursday, Oct. 24, because Friday, Oct. 25 is the date of the Northeast Ohio Teachers Association convention in Cleveland.

The remainder of the schedule is: Sept. 13, Poland, there; Sept. 20, McDonald here; Sept. 27, Minerva there; Oct. 4, Canfield here; Oct. 11, Leetonia there; Oct. 18, Sebring here; Nov. 1, Lisbon here; Nov. 8, East Palestine there; Nov. 15, Louisville there.

The L.L. class will have its Christmas party at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening, with a coverdish dinner at 6:30, for which rolls and coffee will be provided. Members will donate the amount of their usual 50-cent gift exchange to the L. L. Circle fund. The committee is Mrs. Herbert Schlag, Mrs. Mae Smith and Mrs. Carrie Smith.

COLUMBIANA MERCHANTS report the gift buying volume this year ahead of 1955, which set a record to that time. Some estimates place this year 15 per cent ahead of last year. Heaviest buying was reported in the lower price ranges.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Carl Sheets of Mathers Air Base, Sacramento, Calif., who have been spending the holidays at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sheets, New Springfield Road, will start the first of the week on their return journey.

"Life" Magazine recently featured on its cover, with an accompanying article inside, the family of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Magill of Hammond, Ind., formerly of Columbiana. The family includes a daughter, Laurie, 5, and a son, Jackie, 2. Mr. Magill, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Magill, 236 N. Elm St., is a junior executive with Republic Steel, and Mrs. Magill, the former Jennie Childers, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childers, 540 Pittsburgh St., is a fashion consultant in the bridal department of the Hammond branch of Carson, Pirie & Scott of Chicago. Both Mr. and Mrs. Magill are 1975 graduates of Columbiana High School. They were married in 1950 and moved to Hammond three years ago. The Childers family moved to Columbiana in 1937 from Youngstown, where Mr. Childers is employed.

8,646 Papers Reported In U.S. In 1954

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau reported today there were 8,646 big and little newspaper publishing firms in the United States in 1954, employing 281,799 men and women on payrolls totaling $1,262,793,000.

The report, an advance study giving excerpts from the 1954 census of manufacturers, rated the value of the industry's output $3,091,027,000.

Growth of the industry was indicated by a 22 per cent rise in the number of employees since 1947, when the last previous newspaper census was taken. Few other comparisons were available in the preliminary study.

Receipts of newspapers included $840,867,000 from subscriptions and sales, and $2,058,978,000 from advertising. The 1947 figures were $599,925,000 and $1,192,413,000 from advertising.

This disclosed that advertising revenue in 1954 accounted for a somewhat higher proportion of total receipts—about 71 per cent, as against 67 per cent in the 1947 survey.

New York led all states in total number of newspaper firms with 561. Just behind was California, 555. Texas was third with 516 and Illinois fourth with 500.

There were 2,045 magazine publishing establishments in 1954, the study showed. In terms of dollar value of output, newspapers were twice as big an industry as magazines.

The output of periodical publishers was valued at $1,421,720,000 in 1954. They employed 62,428 workers—slightly fewer than in 1947 although the receipts of periodicals increased about 40 per cent in that period.

New York was by far the biggest magazine publishing state with 577 periodical publishers in 1954. Illinois was second with 257 and California third with 181.

The book publishing and printing business had 814 firms with 34,704 employees. Their output was valued at $665,232,000. Book printers, meaning companies which print books for others but are not publishers themselves, numbered 598 firms with 22,695 workers and shipments valued at $221,328,000.

In the miscellaneous publishing category were 946 firms with 18,378 workers. Their combined output was valued at $231,242,000.

One-Time Gambling House Hit By Blast

CLEVELAND (AP) — An explosion Wednesday night rocked the Mounds Club, a one-time gambling house which might be re-opened as a recreation spot for the General Sewer & Water Contractors Assn. of Cleveland.

The blast cracked some flagstones, blew a hole in a double door and shattered several windows at the club on Chardon Road in Willoughby Hills.

Closed in 1948, the club was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Guardio of Beachwood and Frank Kapel of Euclid.

Last week the contractors assn. was reported negotiating to reopen the place as a recreation spot, but president Paul F. Hattendorf said no lease had been signed.

Mrs. Aue May Tell Story Of Slayings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Doctors at General Hospital say Mrs. Helen Aue has improved sufficiently that investigators may be able to question her about the shootings at her home last Friday.

But she was still listed in "critical" condition Wednesday night with a gunshot chest wound. Henry N. Hooper, hospital superintendent, said any interviews today will depend on her condition.

Mrs. Aue, 50, was shot in the back and doctors said she is paralyzed from the waist down. Whether the paralysis is only temporary has not yet been determined.

A physician Wednesday told her that her husband, Lester, 54, and daughter Susan, 17, together with Susan's boy friend, Gordon Pape, Jr., 19, were shot to death in the barrage of gunfire Friday at their home.

Investigators believed that Mrs. Aue was the first one shot, but said that heretofore she has been too critically hurt to be questioned.

Police have blamed young Pape for the shootings, and said letters indicated he was despondent over a broken romance with Susan.

Somebody Was Careful

The Christmas weekend traffic toll this year, as could have been expected, hit an all-time high. With more automobiles than ever before in use and being driven greater distances with more passengers in them, it would take a miracle to reduce collisions and mishaps.

The miracle may be just around the corner at that. Any reasonable evaluation of traffic statistics will show that motorists and pedestrians are widening their margin of safety year by year.

It never was as safe to travel 100,000 miles in an automobile as it is now. This does not mean it cannot and should not be safer, but the safety already achieved is a tribute to the skill and courtesy of the great majority of auto drivers.
Somebody was careful last weekend, or the total would have been ten times greater than it was.

The reckless and unskilled minority, unfortunately, keeps growing along with the skilled and courteous majority, hence an increase in fatalities. But the increase does not keep growing in proportion to the population, the number of automobiles in use or the miles traveled in them. A miracle is possible, therefore.

There may be a holiday weekend within 10 years when millions of Americans can add millions of miles to their ordinary weekend traveling without adding a single additional accident to their customary weekend traffic toll.

There might even be a weekend within 50 years when the weekend toll could be diminished, despite population growth.

How Was Your Spirit?

A strong closing rush put the statistical Christmas over the top. This is the Christmas measured by retail sales. When all figures have been compiled, no one doubts that the 1955 record of December sales in excess of $19 billion will have been topped in 1956.

Two things are going to be examined closely,
however—distribution of sales and their tempo.
Shopping centers apparently have drawn a significant volume of trade away from traditional department stores. Moreover, something odd happened to the tempo of Christmas selling this year.

Had it not been for the closing rush, there might have been real danger of a slump in the statistical Christmas, with the repercussions to be expected whenever a hint is dropped that U.S. business does not necessarily have to rise forever to prove the nation's fundamental soundness.

The explanation for the hold-off in buying must include such things as weather, price stabilization and changed patterns of trade. But chiefly it must include a curious reluctance of buyers to get into what is commonly called "the Christmas spirit." Because of various influences, not the least of which must have been the nature of the news, Christmas in 1956 seemed incredible to millions of us a few days before the event. We barely got under the wire.

No, Juliana

There was a bad echo in the throne room when Holland's Queen Juliana wondered aloud in a Christmas broadcast why she did not have the right to live her own life. Juliana has been under criticism for her curious devotion to a faith healer.

Twenty years ago, King Edward VIII wondered why he did not have the right to live his own life. He gave up the British crown to prove he could do as he pleased if he were not a king — a point that needed no proving.

The question will plague monarchs yet to be born, as it will plague all humans who become symbols of government — prime ministers, premiers, presidents and even dictators.

Their perplexity would disappear if they knew how the symbolism of public leadership evolved.
Sir James Frazer describes in "The Golden Bough" the way in which primitive tribes, first would elevate, then destroy, a "king," with no more compassion than is shown a male spider when his brief role in life is finished. The monarch was a human sacrifice when he had worn out his welcome.

Monarchs developed the doctrine of "divine right" to protect themselves, but it is no protection against criticism, only against replacement.

Apparently, Queen Juliana has not been told that "noblesse oblige" makes a queen the victim as well as the benefactor of her subjects.

That we're a lazy race is proven by the fact that men prefer to use the jack in the pocket to the jack in the car to fix a flat.

Why is it that the thousands of miles of concrete roads in our country never reach where we're going?

It would be easier to believe that a dog is man's best friend if the next door neighbor didn't have one.

An Indiana thief broke a plate glass window to grab some watches—and a judge gave him seven years of bad luck.

There'll Be Much Debate, Few Cuts In '57 Taxes

The one chance for substantial federal tax relief applicable during 1957 is that before Congress gets around to that problem the world situation will have so improved as to permit reduction, rather than increase, in present military expenditures.

As authoritatively reported,
President Eisenhower has slashed deeply an $8 billion dollar increase, asked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff but still the military total for fiscal 1958 will be about $3 billion dollars above the $35 billion dollar allowance for the present year.

Maintenance of the existing level of military expenditure probably would allow a 3 to 4 billion dollar tax reduction and progress toward peace, either in Europe or the Far East, might persuade Mr. Eisenhower or Congress or both of them, to that step.

AS TO EUROPE a great hope of better days inspired by Russian renunciation of Stalinism and a seemingly successful move toward independence by Poland has been largely nullified by events in Hungary.

Prime Minister Nehru of India is carrying to a meeting with China's Chou En-lai an offer by President Eisenhower for abatement of the longstanding Sino-U.S. antagonism provided all American prisoners are released and Chou relinquishes his so far wholly warlike approach to the Formosan problem.

Budget making up to now, however, has proceeded on the same dour world outlook that caused President Eisenhower last January to ask about 2 billion dollars more for defense than in the previous year and Congress to tilt that request by 900 million.

Up to now there is a curious lack of the bidding between Republicans and Democrats for political benefit from fathering tax reduction that featured the first two Eisenhower Congresses, one Rep-UBLICAN and the other Democratic.

THIS LESS PARTISAN aggressiveness is due partly to fear on both sides that tax reduction, without reduced governmental expenditures to match, would stimulate an already growing price inflation.

But more, there has been a decline in devotion to the old idea that tax reduction is a sure-fire vote getter. It is noted that President Eisenhower this year opposed tax cuts with no consequent loss at the polls. The same was true of President Truman, who is sure to be an airing of these and a lot of other alleged inconsistencies whenever the next tax bill is debated.

Dilemma In Hungary

By RAYMOND MOLEY

There is grim irony in the fact that Hungarian workers who, according to Communist ideology, are the source of Soviet power in a Communist state are learning the hard truth of these words:

"Our present government is such that the proletariat, organized to the last man, must protect itself against it. And we must use the workers' organizations for the protection of the workers against their government."

These are not the words of an embattled Hungarian rebel. They are the words uttered long ago by the most esteemed Soviet leader and philosopher, Russian communism's "LITTLE FATHER" or "teacher," Lenin.

LENIN'S FEARS of 30 years ago have long since materialized in the U.S.S.R. Absolute and ruthless one-party control has characterized the Soviet political system for many years. This we see applied in Hungary today — mass liquidation of certain "classes" and a policy of punishment and deportation of recalcitrants and "deviationists."

Then too, so-called "neutrals" have had a good refresher in Communist methods.

It present transgressions in Hungary did not erase certain illusions and ambitions, they undoubtedly did check the degree of those neutrals' gullibility. Even Nehru has been compelled to take a fresh look at communism.

Again the capitals of the free world have reason to be alert. What will come of the meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist Party in Moscow is a conjectural matter.

It will not deliver the Soviets from their dilemma, but, before acting, those present might ponder Lenin's words.

In Russia the imposition of tyranny severely affected the peasants. Stalin once observed that the horrors of World War II couldn't approach the terror of the "collectivization" program.

The population of the satellites, however, is a far cry from those who emerged after centuries under the Csars. They possess national allegiances the Russian peasant of the 1920's never had.

Hungary has a background of revolution and struggle for national independence and of long association with the West and with Western concepts and ideas.

The rank and file in Hungary, Poland and East Germany are unquestionably far ahead of their Russian counterpart of the 1920's — industrially, culturally and politically.

ALL THIS MAKES the prospect of peace and tranquillity for the satellites under Soviet domination an unsubstantial fantasy.

Thus far the Soviet Union has handled the revolts in traditional manner. In recent weeks some 30,000 have died in Budapest's streets and rubble. Many thousands more have been arrested and deported.

The Russian Ivan Serov, who put down similar trouble in Poland by sparing a way or eliminating close to 2 million Poles, is on the job again in Hungary.

But if a Soviet puppet state is to be a reality, the wiping out of opposition, the methodical elimi-

Once Over

Letter For Special Delivery

Mr. Eric Johnston, Czar of the Movies
Dear Eric: Well, on account of I have kids of my own and have noticed that mom and pop are tagged with most of the blame for juvenile warped lives, I can't help wondering whether your Christmas season was at all darkened by the release of two of the most bitterly condemned pictures in history, one of which bore in its very title two words deeply cherished by most folks at Christmas time, "Baby" and "Doll."

DID YOU LIKE MANY feel pretty sad that the peak of Yuletide, when the welfare of the young is of universal concern, was chosen as the time to release movies condemned by churchmen, civic bodies, and even by amusement world publications, as degrading?

Only a few days before the release you flabbergasted parents by an announcement of movie code revisions, not TIGHTENING the code but SOFTENING it up! This was at a moment when a couple of producers were arrogantly brushing off the code and defying public opinion. The whole routine adds to my gogginess.

BUT, TO GET BACK to the pictures, even Variety, the trade publication (never charged with prudery) accused one of these films of reflecting "hard-boiled sadism" and portraying
"rape, robbery, sadistic murder and implied dope addiction," and didn't spare the other one either.

For the first time Cardinal Spellman from the pulpit directly denounced one film as "morally repellent" and "grievously offensive to Christian and other religious traditions."

New York movie critics spoke of a "sordid tale of decadent people, shiftless, drunken neurotics" . . . "a scene of attempted child seduction cold and calculated in its portrayal," and the "startling suggestiveness with which the alliances of a gin-mill operator with a child were directed."

THIS WAS A FEW NIGHTS before Christmas, Mr. Johnston, with the messages of love for children and the symbols of spiritual things heard and seen on all sides.

This was the very hour when the love of kids was being pretty generally manifested.
So I felt extra sorrowful and I wondered how things were with you, top man in the movie world, highly paid watchdog of pictures, and the man who is looked to by pop and mom for help.

I guess I am not alone in my low spirits.
Yes, I know that Hollywood turns out some magnificent pictures, that "Ten Commandments" was being shown a stone's throw from the most condemned picture of the year, and that only a very few producers defy codes, public feeling, the churches, etc. But why make it easier for the few by loosening up the very codes they brush off? I don't dig it. Just a thick, old-fashioned parent, eh, Eric?

Elmer.

JUST BEFORE CHRISTMAS we noticed a department store Santa taking a pill . . . "What are they?" we asked "Tranquillizers," he replied.

Premier Nehru on that recent visit wished America a Happy New Year, thereby resisting a possible impulse to abstain from a commitment.

Our idea of a nonconformist is the fellow who will buy his whiskey only in an orthodox bottle.

"The Big Surprise" ran short of time on its first advertised appearance of a hypnotist to aid quiz show contestants. The hypnotist did not appear, and it occurred to us that perhaps not much will come of the idea until the man who writes the sponsor's commercials is put under a spell.

There is talk of inviting Tito, Zhukov and even Nasser to the United States . . . During "How Crazy Can You Get Week," obviously.

Tarnished Tinsel

By TRUMAN TWILL

The times that try men's souls, with respect to Christmas, are the days afterward . . .

When dark fears are confirmed and an overloaded electric circuit blows its fuse from an overdose of appliances:

When realistic sound effects built into modern toys cease to be amazing and become nerve-wracking:

When all it takes is the thought of sinking an overworked denture into one more Christmas cookie to start a wave of nausea and the mention of anything tougher to drink than tepid milk induces paleness:

When the bright red bows begin to droop and creatures of habit would rather have the magazine rack back where it belongs:

When the gadgets that were going to add new dimensions to life and make every day seem like the best one ever prove to be nothing more tangible than the sizzle of the steak:

When the sure-thing perfume has not lived up to its promise, the do-it-yourself outfit has produced its first blemish, the loose ends of building sets have given way to junk mail addressed to boxholder, that is when the Christmas spirit undergoes its stiffest test:

Only a handful of heroes and heroines can muster a Merry Christmas when Christmas is over.

Theater Shaped Fashions of 1956

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Two Broadway shows shaped the major fashion trends of 1956, and changed the way women looked, walked and wore their hats all over the country.

"My Fair Lady" with its nostalgic 1912 costumes designed by Cecil Beaton, started a return of feminine frills and elegant formality throughout the fashion industry. "Auntie Mame," with its hilarious recap of post-flapper foibles of 1930s incostumes by Travis Banton, started a rage for outsize muffs, cloche hats and the debonair slouch of the era.

Never in recent history has the theater so influenced the nation's vast fashion business, and seldom have women accepted so eagerly a drastic change in mood and silhouette, destined to carry over into 1957.

This was the year when it was fashionable to be ladylike, and the casual little-boy look so beloved by women of all shapes and ages became passe. This was the year when manners returned to fashion, and it became important once more to dress correctly for varying occasions: sports clothes no longer looked right at a cocktail party and full-length evening gowns blossomed once more on dance floors.

This was the year when hats came back in style, and a woman who went bareheaded into a fashionable restaurant for lunch all too often felt self-conscious. Along with the return of greater formality came all the other little refinements of dress in the ladylike era — proper attention to gloves and accessories, more formal hair styles, an increased consciousness of the importance of being correctly shod. This year you didn't see so many open-toed or plastic shoes worn with street clothes. The unadorned pump, with closed toe and heel and a slightly more pointed look, came into its own.

In 1956 fashion preferred understatements in the silhouette, and avoided exaggerations. The nipped waist and the accentuated bosom went out of style, and most daytime clothes, though still slender in line, had a looser, easier fit, so that the body could move inside them.

Women enjoyed being romantic again this year, in appearance as well as mood. They rediscovered the magic of such feminine fru-fru as lace jabots, delicate embroidery, clinging fabrics, sashes, roses and little furs.

Skirts became discreetly longer, but not much, except for after-five occasions. The new demile-goth dinner and theater costume, with hemline just above the ankles, gained importance, and the formal full-length evening gown returned in force, more often an elaborately draped sheath or a slender column of floating layers of chiffon than the wide-skirted ball gown of other seasons.

Even beachwear and sportswear grew modest and ladylike, with a covered-up look in bathing suits and a feminine look in sports clothes. Even on the golf course or tennis court it was more fashionable to look girlish than boyish this year.

The revival of styles of 1930 brought back fox furs in stoles, muffins and trimmings such as collars or hemline borders. Fur hats were the big millinery craze of this winter, the white fur plateau being the most popular and the fez and the pillbox notable in all tones of mink as well as fox, broadtail and Persian lamb.

Suits had shorter, semi-fitted jackets or cape effects, skirts took on a peg-top look in many instances and belts were likely to be worn just beneath the bosom.

Hats, whether of fur or flowers, were big and important, providing the dramatic focal point for an understated costume. Evening hats and headresses were back in fashion, adding a new elegance to the after-dark scene.

This was a year when fashion, produced by Broadway, looked backward and found much of value and charm in the romantic past.

Elks Lodge Plans New Year's Party

The Elks Lodge is planning its annual New Year's Eve party to be highlighted by dancing and a floor show Monday evening.

The Cassidy Dance Studio will present the show, featuring Bonnie Lee Cassidy.

Music will be provided by Bill Richards' Orchestra. Breakfast will be served following the dance. Pat Nocera and his committee are arranging the affair.

The lodge entertained 194 underprivileged children at a Christmas party recently.

Bill Cassidy presented the show which included dancing, acrobatics, baton twirling and a magician. Singing of carols was also enjoyed, accompanied by Mrs. Alida Hindman at the piano.

Highlight of the party was a visit from Santa and Santa Jr. Treats were presented to the children.

The party was planned by Harold Parker and his committee.

Blondes Finish First In Hollywood Glamour Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Even a jealous redhead would have to admit that blondes cause the most talk — and most headlines. And among movie queens, it was blondes four to one in 1956 headlines.

It took one of the most beautiful women in the world, Elizabeth Taylor, for the brunettes even to make a showing.

As headline makers, here's how Hollywood rates them:

Grace Kelly, Jayne Mansfield, Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor and Diana Dors.

For Miss Kelly, the year was a triumph, both artistically and romantically. Her April marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco was one of the most widely publicized events of this or any other year.

Winner of an Oscar the previous year, she soared to new triumphs in 1956 with brilliant comedy performances in "The Swan" and "High Society."

On the Cinderella side, Miss Mansfield scored the greatest single rise of the year — and probably provoked the most whistles with her measurements of 40-19-35. "Aren't they fantastic?" she quipped to a reporter. And it's a classic of understatement.

When Jayne left Hollywood late in 1955 she had trouble getting through the studio gate without a pass. When she returned several months ago, she got the welcome usually reserved for Oscar winners and visiting royalty.

A little play called "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" was the reason. The play wasn't much, but Jayne, wrapped in a towel onstage was.

She said she later found that Arocha, a plant nursery employee, was 64 instead of 41. That he was not a man of means and that he did not own a home.

Arocha, in court on a charge of assault brought by his wife, was ordered to pay her return passage.

It was a great year for her. "Giant" was one of the year's best. Miss Dors came to the United States as Miss Monroe went to England. It was a draw for the headlines.

Elizabeth Taylor did more to bolster the ego of older men in 1956 than the invention of the toupee. She made headlines by divorcing Michael Wilding, 20 years her senior, and then falling "passionately" in love with Mike Todd, even older than Wilding.

It was also a great year for her. "Giant" was one of the year's best. Miss Dors came to the United States as Miss Monroe went to England. It was a draw for the headlines.

Editors Again Make Ike 'Man of the Year'

By DAVID L. BOWEN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Dwight D. Eisenhower has won another election.

Seconding the November vote of the American electorate, Associated Press newspaper, radio and TV editors have named the President as Man of the Year for 1956.

As was the case in the November balloting, this also was a re-election. Eisenhower has now won Man of the Year honors four times out of the past five years. Since 1952, the only year he has missed the top spot in the annual Associated Press poll was 1954, when former French Premier Mendes France got the nod.

Undoubtedly figuring high among reasons for Eisenhower's overwhelming margin in this year's poll was the cardinal part he has played — and still is playing — in shaping United States policy in the critical Middle East. Developments in this area produced news stories the editors judged the biggest of the year.

Courage Recognized

In addition to Eisenhower's record of accomplishment, the vote also may be interpreted as a measure of tribute to a man who despite a heart attack and major surgery for an abdominal disorder, agreed to make the race for the presidency and another four years in what is generally recognized as the toughest job in the world.

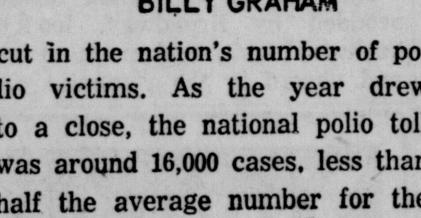

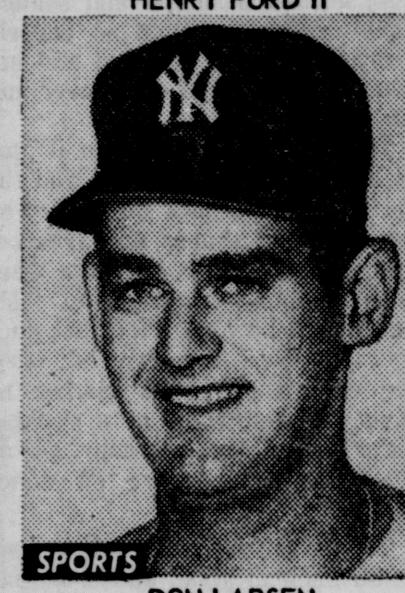

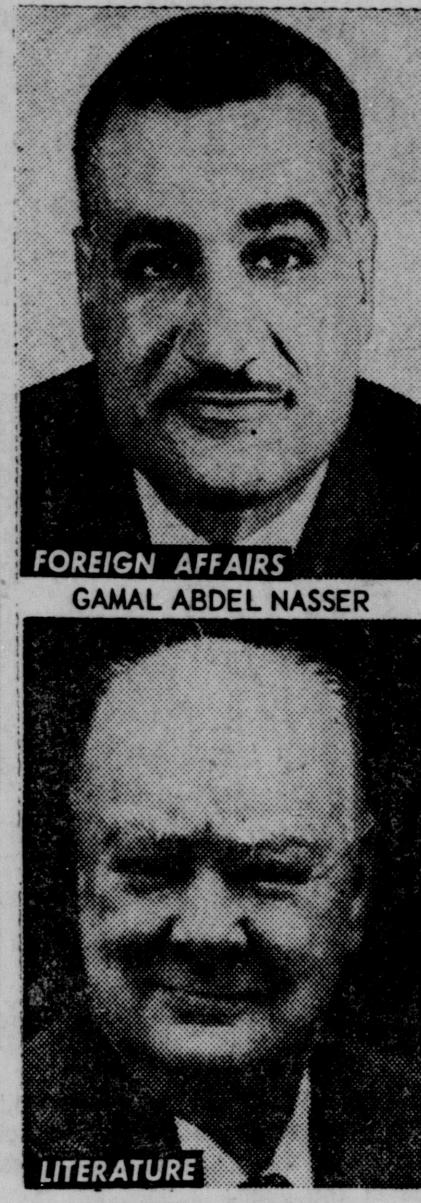

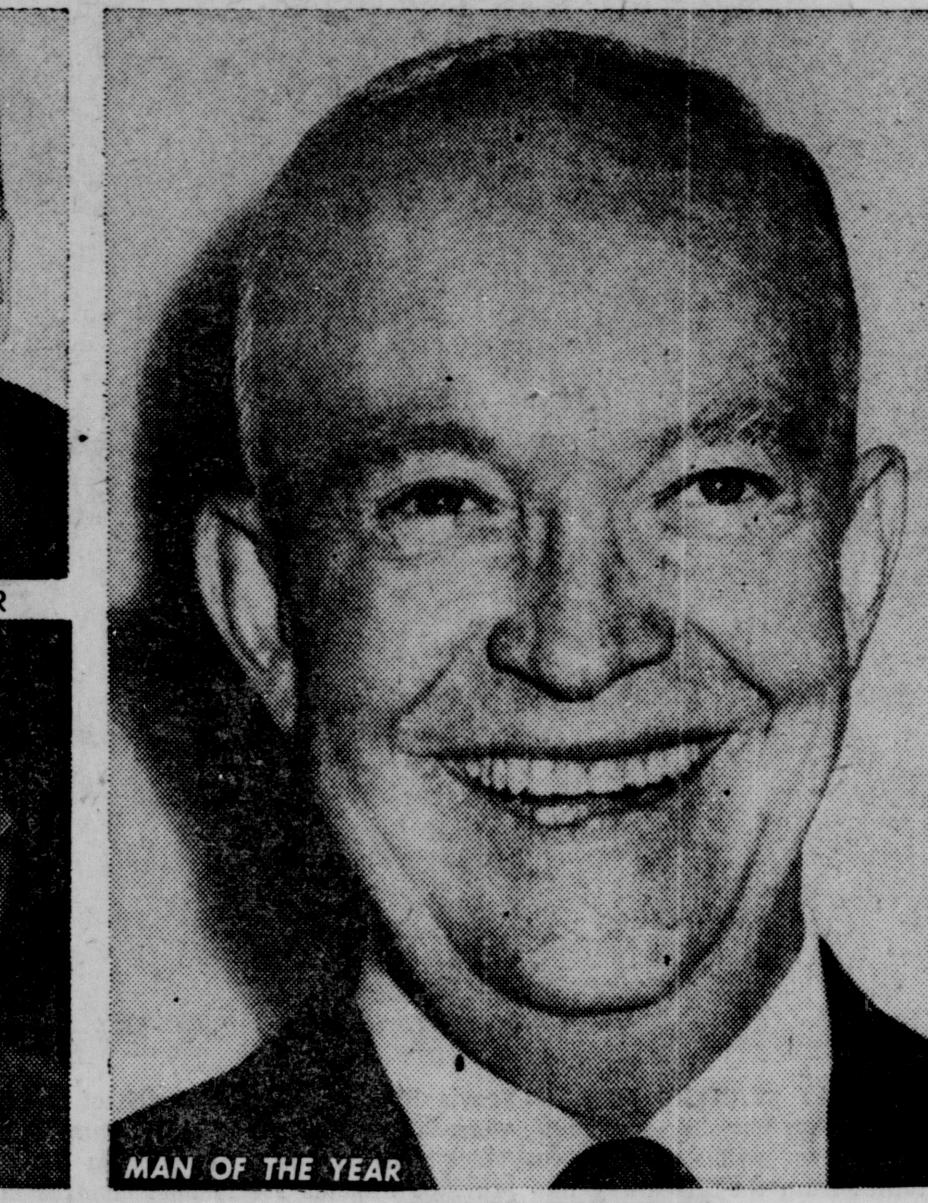

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt was selected by a narrow margin as the outstanding personality of 1956 in the field of foreign affairs, edging out U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, and U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. There is no moral judgment involved in this selection; it simply reflects the editors' belief that Nasser created a bigger stir in world affairs than anyone else.

Logical Basis

The selection stems logically from the editors' choice of the Middle East crisis as the biggest news story of the year, for it was Nasser's emergence as the leader of Arab nationalism, his drift into partnership with the Soviet Union and his dramatic and sudden nationalization of the Suez Canal which set the stage for the autumn eruption of violence on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean.

In science, the editors again this year installed Dr. Jonas Salk as their favorite. The University of Pittsburgh researcher who developed the vaccine providing protection against polio won a similar honor in 1954 and 1955 and tied with the late Dr. Alfred Kinsey in 1953.

Behind Salk's re-election is visible evidence — available for the first time this year — of a deep and imaginative plan of dance of tropical fruits and flowers.

NYC To Build Modern Yards 7-Million Project Set For Youngstown

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Central Railroad announced today it will build the "most modern push-button railroad yards in the world" at Elkhart, Ind., and Youngstown, Ohio. Cost of the electronic-equipped freight yards was put at 21 million dollars.

Alfred E. Perlman, president of the Central, said the projects will be started soon and should be completed by late 1957 or early 1958. They are part of a modernization program that has already brought a $10,599,000 electronic yard close to completion at Buffalo, N. Y.

The Central said the three new yards will permit drastic cuts in time needed to handle trains and freight on its 10,000-mile system. Electronic devices to be used at Elkhart and Youngstown include television and weather-penetrating speed controls. Weather-proof television cameras, the first to be used by the Central, are planned to scan arriving trains and provide yardmasters with an immediate report. Tape-recording devices will make a permanent record of cars and trains entering the yard.

The Youngstown yard is planned to hold 10,000 cars and will cost seven million dollars. It will serve the central and its affiliate, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, the announcement said, and will replace five scattered and obsolete yards now operated in the Youngstown area.

Homeworth Couple Has Anniversary

HOMEWORTH — Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Freshley entertained with a small family gathering Sunday to climax a week-long golden anniversary observed by Mr. Freshley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Freshley, also of Homeworth.

Out of town guests were the host and hostess' son, Pfc. James Freshley, United States Army; Ronald Freshley, United States Navy; and his sister, Mary Jo Freshley of Dundee, Mich.; children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Freshley of Alliance, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuppler and son Karl of Somonauk, Ill., houseguests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hoover of Alliance, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Freshley of Wooster.

During the week Mr. and Mrs. Freshley received more than 60 callers. They were presented many gifts including bouquets of flowers and cards, as well as a floor lamp from their family and potted yellow chrysanthemums from their church, Evangelical United Brethren.

Another feature of the week was the birth on the actual anniversary date, Dec. 18, of Randall Joe, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wagner of Homeworth. Mrs. Wagner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Freshley.

Three Cars Derail, But No One Is Hurt

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Three cars of a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train derailed near here last night, but the railroad's Cincinnati office said that no injuries resulted.

Supervising operator Robert H. Nizer said the derailment tied up one of two tracks at South Charleston, in southeast Clark county, but that the track was cleared early today.

Nizer said the accident occurred when a tie rod broke on a flatcar holding a large steel casting and the car left the rail, carrying with it two boxcars.

Starting a $2,000 fire in a restaurant.

Stealing a car.

Stealing $206 in cash from two homes and $7,000 in stocks and bonds.

Burns the stocks and bonds. Two other 14-year-olds found with a suitcase and other stolen property implicated the boy and his friend, police said. All four were held for juvenile authorities.

Quakers To Play Host Friday To Unbeaten Akron Garfield

Presidents Have Won 4

Akron Has 65.5 Point Average Per Game

By MARK MILLER

Salem High School's newly finished gymnasium floor will see action for the first time Friday night when the undefeated Presidents play host to Akron Garfield's unbeaten Presidents.

Salem's first game of the season, Dec. 11 against Struthers, was scheduled here but was played in Columbiana because the local gym was not completed.

Starting at center for the Presidents will be Manzie Winters, six-foot, three-inch, 190-pound senior; and Sterling Shepard, five-foot, 10-inch, 160-pound senior, and Jack Dutton, five-foot, nine-inch, 170-pound senior will start at the forward posts.

Bob Price, six-foot, one-inch, 165-pound sophomore; and Bob Roeger, five-foot, 10-inch, 140-pound junior will start at the guard slots.

Other players who will see plenty of action for Akron are Paul Heiman, who plays both guard and forward; Harold Johnson, who also plays both positions; and center Dave Hicks, a six-foot, four-inch lad.

John Cabas, head coach, said he will start John Stephenson, Dick Beall, Ted Jackson, Mark Fenton, and John Sturgeon. Jackson and Fenton will play at the forward posts, Beall and Stephenson will go at the guards, and Sturgeon will start at the center slot.

Bill Pauline, Bill Schuster, Jim Meissner, and Darryl Adams also should see plenty of action for the Quakers.

Akron, in winning four straight, has listed as its victims Akron, Ellet, 64-46, Barberton 63-47, Massillon 66-51 and Akron St. Marys 69-60.

Salem has defeated Struthers 49-37, Columbiana 42-38, and East Palestine 72-64.

The Presidents have scored 282 points for a 65.5 average per game and they have allowed their opponents 204 points for an average of 51 points per game.

The Red and Black scored 163 points in their three encounters for a 54.3 average per game, while the opposition has tallied 139 points for a 46.3 average per contest.

Three Quaker seniors are hitting the double figure column in scoring. Ted Jackson has the edge with a 15.3 average; John Stephenson has a 15-point average and Mark Fenton has a 10-point average for the first three games.

The reserve game Friday will start at 7:30 p.m.

Buddy Parker Signs Two-Year Contract

By JIM SMALLEGAN

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions football coach Raymond (Buddy) Parker looked like a Texas oil man who had just capped a gusher.

Parker's well will bring in $30,000 a year for the next two years in the form of a new contract with the National Football League club.

It was capped Wednesday when the Lions' 15-man board of directors finally decided to offer a two-year pact to the 43-year-old Texan instead of sticking to the one-year contract Parker turned down last week.

"I think my coaching record with the Lions deserves more than a one-year contract," Parker had said, and he meant it. "My 1956 contracts runs out Saturday and that's how I'm operating," he said.

But when the turmoil ended following a 2½-hour meeting by directors and a 30-minute huddle with Lions president Edwin J. Anderson, Parker said:

"Now I'm going to work on our next draft meeting in Philadelphia. I haven't made up my mind what we want yet, but we've got to get on it quick."

Anderson said the reason Parker had not been offered a two-year agreement last week was a "misunderstanding between Buddy and myself."

Parker had two reasons for not worrying about his job. In his worrying about his job. In his six years at Detroit he won western division titles in 1952, 1953 and 1954, world titles in 1952 and 1953 and had finished second in the division twice, including this year. His worst season was last year when he had a 3-9 last-place record.

1/2 Million Expected at Rose Bowl Festivities

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Pasadena Police Chief Clarence Morris estimates that about a half million cars carrying 1½ million people will swarm into Pasadena Tuesday for the Tournament of Roses Parade and Rose Bowl football game.

The parade will include 63 flower-decked floats, 20 bands and about 200 horseback riders, in addition to banner carriers and three rose-covered cars carrying grand marshal Eddie Rickenbacker and other parade officials.

North Defeats South 17-7

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The North defeated the South 17-7 in the Shrine's annual College All-Star football game Wednesday night, but you can't convince die-hard rebels that the South didn't really come out on top.

Tommy McDonald, the wonderful All-America halfback from Oklahoma, and his teammate, quarterback Jimmy Harris, were big guns in a North attack that gave the Yankees only their second win in the nine-year-old series.

The North was allowed to make this raid below the Mason-Dixon Line in the hope that players from national champion Oklahoma would strengthen the Yankees and balance the competition in a series which has been dominated in the past by the rebels.

Harris, a signal-caller b trade who was shifted to fullback in the All-Star contest, and Len Dawson of Purdue, the Big Ten passing champion, were other standouts in the North attack.

Harris threw a nine-yard touchdown pass to Indiana's Bob Fee and Dawson got the other North touchdown with a 19-yard heave to Michigan State's Jim Hinesley. McDonald led all ground gainers with an average of 5.7 yards in 12 carries and completed two of three passes for 59 yards. One of his throws, a 39-yard beauty to Dennis Mendyk of Michigan State, set up the second North score.

Dawson, only player ever to lead the Big Ten in passing and total offense for three straight years, completed three of ten throws for 56 yards.

Both North touchdowns were scored in the second period after fumble recoveries. Michigan's Mike Rotunno claimed the first bobble by Vanderbilt's Don Orr and Wisconsin's Dave Howard covered the other fumble by Barnes.

Stymied through the first half by a savage North defense, the South finally managed to score in the third period but never threatened again.

Seconds before the final gun, Jim Maddock of Michigan booted a field goal from 13 yards out to add the North's last three points.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. L. LIDE

Most hunters have oiled their guns and put them aside for the season.

However, rabbit season is still in and will be until Jan. 1. Ruffed grouse also may be taken, 3 per day with 6 in possession, until Jan. 31.

There being no closed season on foxes, the best hunting days are ahead. Not only is this good sport but there is also a three dollar bounty on four fox paws. Take them to the sheriff's office within 48 hours and pick up a certificate good for $3.

THOSE HAWKS YOU SEE combining the fields while flying about ten feet off the ground are marsh hawks and protected by law. They are practically harmless. They live almost entirely on small rodents.

Identification is easy. Note the white patch appearing on the base of the tail feathers and the dark wing tip on the males. In case you do not know, there is no such thing as a "chicken hawk." A Coopers hawk or sharp-shin does take chickens occasionally. They belong to the medium sized class of hawks. The broad wing hawks like the red shoulder and red tails, get the blame for doing damage while the Coopers and the sharp-shin gets the eating.

All hawks and owls are protected by law and can be killed only when doing actual damage.

I would advise anyone interested in protecting our wildlife to go to the nearest book store and buy a handbook on birds or visit the public library and read up about hawks and owls in order to separate the good from the bad.

In fact, before you present your boy with a shotgun or 22 rifle you will be wise to see that he has been instructed in when to shoot and when not to shoot.

Norkus slipped to the canvas in the seventh and although he bounced up immediately, Gottfried counted to eight before letting him resume.

Pastrano, a New Orleans native who fights out of Miami, weighed 189½ and Norkus, of Port Washington, N. Y., weighed 194 for their 10-round bout.

Judges Eddie Thol and Stu Winsor had it 100-90 for Pastrano, referee Si Gottfried 100-87 and The AP 100-91.

Norkus slipped to the canvas in the seventh and although he bounced up immediately, Gottfried counted to eight before letting him resume.

Neither would amplify Sharry's statement of possible union affiliation.

Lisbon Forfeits To Republicans

Suburban Market, Quaker City And Bloomberg's Win Games

In City League basketball action Wednesday night, the Quaker City Turkeys beat Konnerth Jewelry 28-22, the Republicans won on a forfeit over Lisbon 2-0, Bloomberg's edged Gasco, 45-38, and Suburban Market smashed Deming 40-33.

Two More U.S. Newsmen In Peiping, China

HONG KONG (AP) — Two more American newsmen—A reporter and a photographer—today were reported to be in Peiping, capital of Communist China.

The Peiping correspondent for a British news agency cabled Hong Kong that Edmund Stevens and Phillip Hollington, both of Look magazine, arrived in Peiping Wednesday from Moscow.

The U. S. State Department has long banned travel in Red China by Americans. It reaffirmed its order last August after a Peiping government invited about two dozen American reporters to tour the Chinese mainland. The department said the ban was continued because Communist China was holding U. S. citizens as "political hostages".

A Look spokesman in New York refused to confirm or deny the report. Stevens is the magazine's Moscow correspondent.

In Moscow, Stevens' family said he left the Soviet capital last Friday en route to Peiping for Look. The family said he was accompanied by Phillip Hollington, a photographer who had arrived from New York a few days earlier.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman in Moscow said Stevens and Hollington had not notified the embassy of any plans to go to Peiping. It was understood that the two flew to Peiping in a plane of the Soviet airline, Aeroflot.

Another American newsman—the first to defy the State Department ban—crossed the border at Hong Kong Monday for a trip into Communist China. He was William Worthy of the Baltimore Afro-American, who said he had been given a one-month visa by Chinese Communist authorities.

The State Department said it deplored his action "because it is against the expressed policy of the United States government."

New Dog Licenses Required By Jan. 20

Approximately 10,000 dog owners received application notices for their 1957 licenses today.

Licenses are obtainable in Salem at Fisher's newsstand, the Automobile Club, Glogan Hardware, Gordon Leather shop and the Arrow hardware.

The deadline for obtaining the new licenses is Jan. 20 after which a $1 penalty will be added, Russell Reichenbach, county dog warden, warned.

County Scouts To Attend Jamboree

Eighteen Boy Scouts from Columbiana County will attend the fourth national Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., July 12 through 18, according to the Columbiana County Boy Scout Council.

In addition, the council hopes to send to the jamboree an additional 15 youths who are eligible to attend.

Candidates for the jamboree are selected by unit committees on the basis of achievement and advancement in scouting. Boys attending must be second class scouts and at least 12 years of age. Two scoutmasters from Columbiana Council also will attend the jamboree.

A 1,500-acre tent city will house more than 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers, and leaders from all parts of the nation and from other lands during the jamboree. Said to be the largest gathering of boys in the western hemisphere, the tent city will have its own water, electricity, telephone exchange and post office.

Doctors from the home areas will travel and live with the contingents and each jamboree scout and Explorer will be examined by a physician at home and at the jamboree.

Radio controlled trucks will deliver dairy products, meat, fruit, and vegetables daily to necessary refrigerators, and campers will cook their own meals and share daily camp chores.

An amphitheater has been set up for jamboree campers and guests. Scouts will see campfire and daytime demonstrations, will go on excursions to historical points of interest.

Teams of national, sectional and troop scouting leaders will govern the city. Gene Seeley of Chester, W. Va., district commissioner; and southern district executive will serve on the jamboree's sectional staff.

Ross Ludwig, county scout executive, is handling the arrangements for Columbiana Council. Boys chosen to attend will be announced soon, according to Ludwig.

Hutson Funeral

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Stark Memorial for Arthur T. Hutson, 83, who died Tuesday at the First Baptist Home, Pittsburgh.

Rev. R. J. Hunter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Memorial this evening from 7 to 9.

Obituary

Charles T. Burham

Charles T. Burham, 91, of Walnut St., Washingtonville, died of complications Wednesday at 4:15 p.m. at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nana Hulon of 440 Oak St., East Palestine. He had been ill one month.

Born in Garrettsville Sept. 28, 1865, he was the son of Thomas and Arvela Woods Burham. A retired rail road worker, he was a resident of Washingtonville 19 years. He was a member of the First Christian Church of Lisbon.

His wife, the former Alice Rebecca Figley whom he married in 1890, died in 1930.

Besides Mrs. Hulon he leaves seven other daughters, Mrs. Minnie Bratt of Washingtonville, Mrs. Bertha McQuiston of Columbiana, Mrs. Thelma Mathey of Washingtonville, Mrs. Ada Bell of RD 3, Salem, Mrs. Mildred Pennell of RD 1, Lisbon, Mrs. Margaret DeRhodes of Massillon and Mrs. Bessie Jungenheimer of RD 3, Lisbon; a son, James B. Burham of Lisbon; a step-daughter, Mrs. Stella Grade of Lisbon; and a brother, Jesse Burham of East Palestine.

Service will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at Woods Funeral Home in Leetonia. Rev. E. D. Fager will officiate.

Burial will be in St. Jacobs Church cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson

ALLIANCE — Mrs. Bertha E. Johnson, 68, of 895 Haines Ave., died suddenly at 3 a.m. today at her residence.

Born Jan. 29, 1888 in Westville, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pidgeon.

A lifetime resident in the vicinity of Westville, Salem and Alliance, she was a member of the First Friends Church here, and a charter member of Tri Sigma Sunday School Class.

Survivors are her husband, Arthur C. Johnson; two sons, Harold of Beloit and Raymond of Alliance; and six grandchildren. The last of her immediate family, a brother, James A. Pidgeon of Salem, preceded her in death.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Friends Church, with Rev. Clarence Sekerek, pastor, and Rev. C. T. Mangrum, pastor of the Beloit Friends Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Damascus Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Cassady-Turkle Funeral Home Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

'WOMEN OF THE YEAR'

Grace Kelly Was Headline Champ of '56

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Grace Kelly, the beautiful Hollywood star who married a prince and plans to live happily ever after, was voted top woman news personality of 1956 in the annual poll of Associated Press newspaper, radio and TV.

Her April marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco rated the greatest news, TV and radio coverage since the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

The recent visit of the royal couple to this country, together with announcement of the imminent birth of an heir, kept the headline ball rolling throughout the year.

THE EDITORS' VOTE, based solely on news interest, proved once again that a royal romance is tops in reader interest. Last year Princess Margaret of Britain won the women's news crown after putting duty above her love for the dashing but divorced R. O. A. Air Force Group Captain Peter Townsend.

Unprecedented in the women's editors' poll was the record number of votes for the late, great Babe Zaharias as woman of the year in sports, although her only competition in 1956 was her gallant losing battle against cancer, which ended with her death in a Galveston, Tex., hospital Sept. 27.

The Babe, a champion in practically every field of sports, didn't know how to be a loser and her courageous fight for life was followed with admiration and sympathy by newspaper readers all over the world.

VOTED WOMAN OF the year in business was Mrs. Charles Ulrich Ray, widow of the former United States ambassador to Norway, who on Dec. 1 became the first woman in history to head a New York Stock Exchange firm, as president and chairman of the board of the 92-year-old brokerage house, A. M. Kidder and Co.

The most newsworthy woman in the field of literature in 1956 was the sensationally successful young French novelist, Francoise Sagan, whose first book, "Bonheur Triste" was written at the age of 18, while she was a student at the Sorbonne. To date it has sold over two million copies in 18 languages. Her second book, "A Certain Smile," was published in August of this year by E. P. Dutton and Co.

Top woman newsmaker for 1956 in the field of public service was Clare Boothe Luce, who resigned as United States ambassador to Italy Nov. 19, after a four-year term in which she overcame Italian antipathy to a woman ambassador and proved one of the most successful American diplomats of her time. Her resignation was received with reluctance by President Eisenhower, who gave in when she explained that her recent illness necessitated a period of rest.

DR. LOUISE SEYLER, deputy superintendent of Los Angeles City Schools, was voted woman of the year in education. She is one of the highest-paid women educators in the country and a champion of the three R's in education, who says she believes parents are entitled to feel their children are being given "basic foundation in the essentials." A veteran of 27 years in the Los Angeles schools, she is known as an all-around educator.

JULIE ANDREWS, 21-year-old co-star of "My Fair Lady," was voted woman of the year in the field of entertainment, for her performance as Eliza Doolittle, the Cockney flower girl who became a lady in the modern musical version of Shaw's "Pygmalion."

Five persons were fined or forfeited bonds here totaling $119 for traffic violations Wednesday and Thursday, Mayor Dean B. Cranmer reported today.

Forfeiting bonds were: Rosella Hughes, 42, of East Liverpool, $10 reckless operation; Robert Engle, 34, of Pahokee, Fla., $59, overload; Robert Clites, 25, of Bobtown, Pa., $10, passing on a hillcrest; and Clyde Boyd, 27, of Boliwar, $20, speeding.

Fined was Clyde Wilkes, 23, of 303½ E. Wilson, $20, reckless operation.

Still standing were the neighboring homes of actor Raymond Burr, composer Gordon Jenkins and producer Charles Erskine.

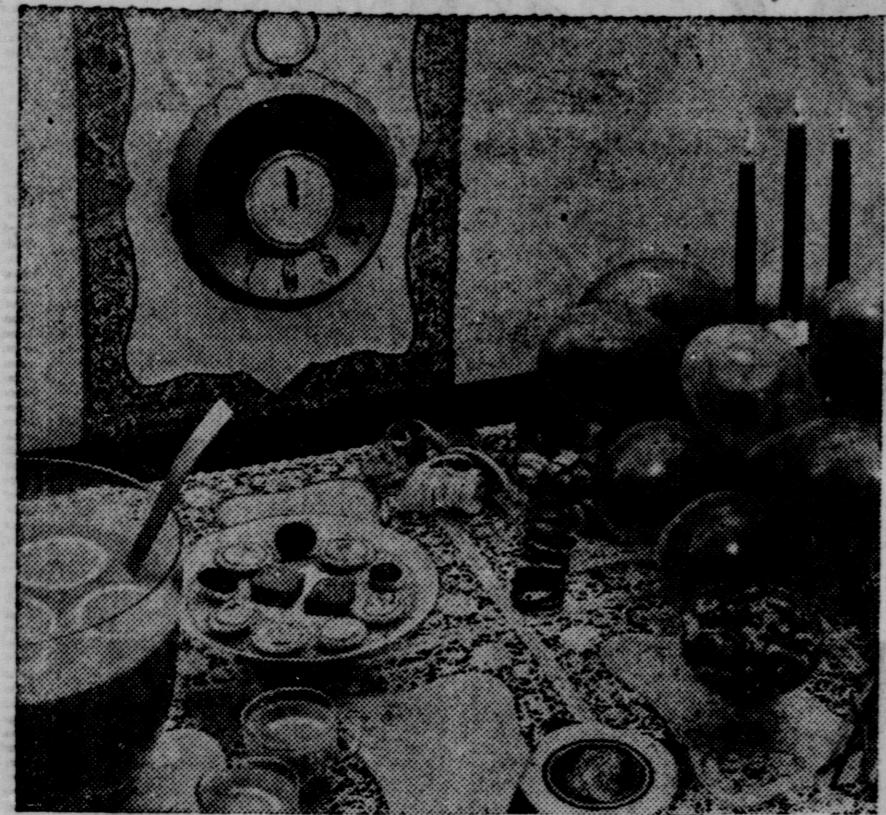

The home of movie producer Arthur Freed and its $150,000 orchid nursery were spared but the adjoining $75,000 home of his brother, Hugo Freed, was burned by the fast-moving flames.

A reporter encountered actor Jackie Coogan using a residential telephone in the Paradise Cove area. Coogan said he and his neighbors were getting out, although apparently not in immediate danger at the time.

inexpensive to make, festive and impressive.

Above the table, hang a large clock in a lace paper gold frame. To complete this royal welcome to 1957, inflate silver and gold balloons, add long paper horns.

To Make Paper Tablecloth: To create this handsome cloth, place gold and silver paper place mats (14½ inches by 10 inches) side by side alternately. This gives a checkerboard effect which is very effective.

Use enough to cover entire table, or to make runner down center. Flip mats over on wrong side, fasten down with cellophane tape. May be made in advance, rolled on a cardboard tube and set aside for safekeeping.

To make picture frame for New Year's clock: This lace paper frame is stunning and carries out the theme of the golden Eve perfectly. It couldn't be simpler.

Fit two gold paper mats together lengthwise, with edges even. Make a diagonal cut in lower left hand corner and another in upper right hand corner. With pair of sharp scissors, cut away the solid center of mat.

Separate the two mats, spread apart. They will form a frame approximately 28 inches long by 20 inches wide. Fasten cut edges with tape. Fasten to wall with tape. Hang clock in center.

IN THE SERVICE

TEXAS AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. — Robert H. Talbot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Talbot of 290 W. Pershing St., Salem, has been promoted to airman first class under the December quota given this basic multi-engine pilot training base. He is assigned to aircraft maintenance.

Airman Talbot, in service since September, 1954, is a June, 1954 graduate of Salem high school, where he played football and was a member of the student council. His wife is the former Melissa Marie Layton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Layton, 636 E. Pershing St.

Paul R. Fast, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Fast of Washingtonville has been promoted to the grade of specialist 3rd class, it was announced today by Sgt. Emanuel Bosley, the local Army recruiter. Fast is presently stationed at Fort Eustis, Va., with the 124th Transportation Company.

Fast enlisted at the Salem recruiting station in March, 1955 and received basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

After basic he graduated from the Army riggers' school and the stevedore school in Fort Eustis.

During the summer of 1956, Fast served for three months in Greenland when his company was resupplying an Air Force base there. Fast attended Leetonia High School.

James W. Keller, 18, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Entriene of 1033 E. 3rd St., enlisted in the regular Army this month at the local Army recruiting station, it was announced today by Sgt. Emanuel Bosley, local army recruiter stationed in the post office.

Keller attended Salem High School and was also a member of the local Army reserve unit for more than a year. While in the reserve unit, James was promoted to the grade of private first class. Keller is now receiving basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The Army must be a good deal when an Army recruiter signs up his own brother for the service. That's just what happened at the East Liverpool Army Recruiting Station, where SFC Emanuel Bosley, district Army recruiter, enlisted his younger brother, Ocey A. Bosley this week.

Housewives' K.P.' Duties Were Eased During Year

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor

Culinary queens received plenty of help during 1956. New foods appeared the whole year through to boost kitchen reigns.

Epicurean as well as good plain cooks welcomed a new variety of condensed soup: vegetable beef. The soup needs only to be heated and yet offers the old-fashioned flavor that takes hours of preparation in home kitchens.

City, Pa., and traveled from that city to East Liverpool just to give his brother the honor of enlisting him.

Ocey is the fourth member of the Bosley family to join the Army. And there is one more brother who is waiting for the day when he too will be old enough to be with his big brothers. He is James Bosley, seven years old. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Bosley, think it's a good idea also.

Separate the two mats, spread apart. They will form a frame approximately 28 inches long by 20 inches wide. Fasten cut edges with tape. Fasten to wall with tape. Hang clock in center.

Hurry up cooks who like more than salt and pepper in many foods were interested in a new Italian-type seasoning that blends seven herbs: marjoram, thyme, rosemary, savory, sage, oregano and basil.

Onions appeared in concentrated granulated toasted form to give dishes prepared by short-order cooks the aroma and flavor of French-fried onions.

Cooks who don't like to crack hard nuts pounced on a new group of vacuum-packed nutmeats.

They come in convenient one-and-a-half cup size cans, with a key device for opening and with resealable lids. Kitchen artists can choose among pecans, walnuts, black walnuts, almonds (in the skin or blanched). A similar can of salted nuts contains a mixture of pecans, cashews, almonds and filberts or Brazil nuts.

A corn bread mix came in fantastically easy-to-prepare form. A plastic bag containing the mix the wrist, the bag is reclosed and the contents squeezed until the mixture is ready to turn into an aluminum foil pan that comes with the mix. No mixing bowls, spoons or baking pan to wash — and a delicious bread besides.

A new frosting mix won converts because of its caramel flavor and smooth texture. It will cover a round layer cake, a large loaf cake or the tops of a couple of dozen cupcakes. It will also produce two cups of caramel sauce

A new cake mix won a bow: a white batter with lemon flakes. Refrigerated cookies come in rolls in several flavors, ready to be sliced and baked.

Devotees of pie crusts made from graham crackers were enchanted by packaged graham-cracker crumbs that come in bags with waxed-paper inner liners and tin-tie foldover tops. Each bag holds enough crumbs for three nine-inch pies.

Small fry reveled over pink lemonade. The lemonade is a frozen concentrate that is colored with pure fruit juices.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The eighth wonder of the world is Mr. Nehru's contempt for it. The Indian prime minister's disdain for any and all who question him is so lofty it dwarfs the original seven wonders.

During his short stay here, Nehru coolly snubbed the massive American labor movement — which, for those who have tried it, is no easy maneuver.

Mr. Nehru was as emotionless as the lady resident of the Taj Mahal when, three weeks ago, he was asked by AFL-CIO president George Meany to make time for a talk when the prime minister got to the U.S.

Mr. Meany not only dispatched such an invitation to the Indian leader but sent another note to the Indian Embassy making the same request.

IN MR. MEANY'S letter, the labor chief suggested that they sit down with Anna Kethly, leader of what is left of the anti-Communist Hungarian regime-in-exile.

Mr. Meany, who has fought for huge shipments of wheat for the shrunken bellies of India's starving millions, thought Nehru would be interested in a first-hand account of the shrinking of lives and liberties in Hungary.

Anna Kethly is here and has been just around the corner from Mr. Nehru, who ate a hearty chicken dinner at Mrs. Roosevelt's New York home Thursday night along with Chester Bowles, another gracious fellow whose one world is so crowded with love for India that he seems emotionally exhausted when other people cry out for help.

Miss Kethly might have proved to be a bit of a bore, at that, to Mr. Nehru.

ALL SHE HAD in her possession was first-hand descriptions of Russian tanks shooting Hungarian men and kids. And some scraps of paper on which were scrawled messages thrown from jammed box-cars carrying 30,000 freedom fighters who were being deported to Siberia.

The pieces of paper said little things like, "We're being shipped like cattle by the Russians, tell our parents."

Mr. Nehru did not see Mr. Meany. The prime minister did not even answer his letters. Nor did the Indian Embassy. Mr. Meany, spokesman for 16 million American working people, was ignored. And Mr. Meany is my nominee for the

At one point, Ruff said, he was placed in a closet two and a half feet in size. He was kept there for five and a half days. Then he was put into the "bewitched room."

It had whirling, flashing lights and a bed at a crazy angle. All the other prisoners around him went insane. Finally he pretended to go mad.

WHEN THE secret police realized it could gain little out of further questioning of the lad, they sent him to an insane asylum.

Came the revolution and Ruff broke out. He joined the anti-Communist leadership in Budapest and was dispatched to raid the mansion of former Prime Minister Matyas Rakosi.

There Ruff found what the Communist aristocracy was like. The ville was lush. It had a sumptuous theater, big kitchens, lavish rooms, barracks for a personal bodyguard of 200 men—and a crematorium, small size—just like the Nazis—for political enemies.

None of this did Mr. Nehru, in his neutralism, want to hear.

That's why he snubbed some of the best friend shsini opw puvo eere best friends his own people ever had. Obviously the man in jodphurs is riding the wrong horse.

Under a new civil-defense program in Sweden in case of sudden attack, the first fifty per cent of population to be evacuated to rural areas will be children and invalids. Rock shelters are being built in Stockholm and other cities for adults who must remain behind.

Toledo U. Instructors Trying To Make U.S. Army Think More Like Businessmen

By BILL NEWKIRK

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—We taxpayers probably owe a debt of gratitude to a handful of University of Toledo instructors. They're trying to make the Army think like businessmen when it spends our money.

In fast-paced courses averaging only two weeks, the instructors are drilling the methods of economy-minded big business into an organization traditionally accustomed to letting someone else worry about the costs.

"To explain it roughly, the accent in Army bookkeeping has been shifted to dollar signs and values from the old philosophy of gotta - have-it; don't-care-how-you-get-it," explained Dr. Loring M. Thompson, associate professor of industrial engineering and one of the 12 instructors in the program.

Thompson said the Army began turning to "business methods" of bookkeeping following recommendations by the Hoover Commission in 1949 and under Title IV of the Security Act of that same year.

"At that time," he said, "you could have compared the Army with a huge department store that was still trying to keep records like a country store. It had simply outgrown its methods."

"It used to be," he continued, "that Army equipment was a matter of guns, mules and shovels. Record-keeping was comparatively simple, even if it was in triplicate."

"But look at the Army today: Electronics components. Atomic weapons. Guided missiles. Is it any wonder they're having any bookkeeping trouble?"

To help solve the problem, the Army's Ordnance Corps had the university set up a training program in 1952.

Under the title "Ordnance Financial Management Training Program," the university through the fiscal year ended last July had given courses to more than 3,000 military and civilian employees of the Ordnance Corps, the supply and equipment arm of the Army. The corps is spending between $150,000 and $200,000 to send another 2,000 through the courses this fiscal year.

Each year the Ordnance Corps makes from 2 to 3 billion dollars worth of purchases and currently has inventories of about 11 billion dollars.

That gives you an idea of the size of the undertaking which faced the college instructors.

"To begin with," said Thompson, "we had to start with explanations of such simple things as debits and credits. The personnel was used to the old 'free issue' policy and had no idea of how to go about making books balance."

"To exaggerate a bit," he added, "the Army also wanted to teach its people not to buy a whole new engine when a set of spark plugs would do."

He said the Army now has become a "consumer" in the strict business sense of the word: "It has to budget funds for spare parts. When any one unit gets something from another unit, it's handled as a 'purchase' and a 'sale.' Each unit must be able to state the dollar value of its inventories."

Some of the course titles are enough to make any good soldier run for his abacus. They include:

Appropriation accounting, contract pricing, facilities layaway, management financials reports, costs analysis and contract financing.

The contracts courses show something of the nature of the involved transactions the Army gets into these days.

Dr. Thompson said many of the purchases made by the modern Army are so technical and involve so much money that it is impossible to get bids on an open basis.

"No one would risk a bid on a set price," he said. "So the contracts have to be negotiated with the contractor demanding various provisions to protect himself against loss. Naturally, the Army wants to keep these loopholes to a minimum."

"You can see that the Army representatives in these negotiations with businessmen need plenty of know-how. That's what we try to give them."

Like anything connected with the Army, the courses go strictly by the book: according to regulations.

But the university and the Ordnance Corps have a way to deal with this limitation.

When any new course is established, the university sends out instructors to study the particular operation concerned. The instructors draw up a manual and make a test run of the course with an Army expert sitting in as an observer.

Any matters of policy that seem to conflict with good business procedure are sent to a higher Army level for study.

The classes themselves are operated on an open-forum basis. Questions from the students often bring up other policy problems and these, too, are "sent upstairs" for what is hoped will be a quick solution.

Do the students like the project? "They actually want to take the courses," Thompson said, "and while they're in class, they keep us hoping to supply the answers. What more could any teacher ask?"

Canada leads in annual per capita consumption of lumber at 284 board feet. New Zealand is second at 280 and the United States third at 246 feet.

Twins Are No Surprise To This Akron Couple

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—It was no surprise when Mrs. Adabelle Edwards, 39, gave birth to twins early Wednesday at Akron General Hospital.

A girl, weighing 5 pounds 15 ounces, and boy 5 pounds 9 ounces, were the 11th and 12th children of Mrs. Edwards and her husband Lawrence, who is a tool and die maker at a rubber plant.

The family physician had advised them to expect another set of twins.

The first pair, Robert and Rita arrived six years ago. The second pair arrived 2½ years ago. One was a boy, who died, and the other a girl, Beverly Ann.

The couple lost another girl baby several years ago but five others who arrived singly are Loretta, 18, Larry, 15, Donald, 13, David, 10, and Glenn, 4.

The third set of twins will be no surprise to any relatives or either side of the family, either as pairs are "scattered all through the family tree" of each parent. Edwards has a twin brother and Mrs. Edwards a twin sister.

Patrolman Killed While Answering An Alarm

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Mayfield Heights patrolman who was answering a savings and loan company alarm at the Eastgate Shopping Center was killed Wednesday in a two-car collision at Mayfield and Som Center roads.

The police car, in which Patrolman Nicholas Catalano, 29, was riding alone, jumped a curb following the collision and crashed into a gas station. The policeman was pronounced dead at Huron Road Hospital.

The robbery alarm proved groundless.

It would cost a do-it-yourself fan about $50 to make a single modern lead pencil if he bought raw materials and started from scratch.

New Era's make the big difference in this—

HOLIDAY PARTY TREAT

Fancied-up with Cheese Dip, or heaped generously high by themselves, New Era Potato Chips have a deep down flavor, a satisfying golden goodness that's never quite been matched.

Many things help make this difference: Our field testing units that check farmers' fields, our use of pure white vegetable shortening (not oils), a little extra fussiness and pride that's made New Era the largest selling brand of potato chips in America.

And, naturally, we use no artificial preservatives.

So many folks tell us that our New Era "Chip 'N' Dip" recipe makes the perfect party snack, that you'll want to try it if you haven't already:

- 1 Large Package, Philadelphia Cream Cheese.
- 2 Large Teaspoons, Sharp Horseradish.
- 1 Teaspoon Grated Onion, or Pure Onion Juice.
- Cream.

Blend all ingredients together, adding cream until a "dipping" consistency is achieved. Garnish with sliced olives. Serve with New Era Potato Chips.

By R. W. Kaminsky

A GOOD START

One of the best things about the start of a new year is the feeling that many of us get that we can turn over a new leaf and help make the coming year a better one than the year just ended. That's why we make New Year's resolutions.

Well, here's one that will bring you nothing but enjoyment. Resolve to get started taking pictures. Or, if you're already a snapshooter, make up your mind to take better pictures. After all, even the top professionals are always learning new tricks.

Whether you're just about to get started or you've been taking to come in and chat. We'd like to help you. Always feel free to come in and chat. We'd like to tell you what's new in photography and what you can do to get more out of picture-taking.

For example, there are a number of new Kodak Films which give better results than you ever got before. We can show samples of what can be done. Why not come in soon?
